Programme Manager

Nehru Foundation for Development (NFD), founded in 1966 by Dr. Vikram A. Sarabhai, is seeking a Programme Manager.

NFD works to advance conservation and sustainable development. It supports institutions and initiatives across science education, environment, climate change, natural resource management, health and nutrition, crafts and livelihoods.

The role calls for a candidate with a strong understanding of the development sector, good communication skills and the ability to take initiative, work independently and contribute to partnerships, programmes, and organisational growth. If you are committed to social development and looking for a meaningful opportunity, this may be the right role for you.
